

Imaging mass spectrometry

The top panel is a representative survey mass spectrum obtained from a rat brain section. The bottom nine images show the optical image of the section along with the spacial distribution of selected mass signals from the spectrum depicted as pseudo-color images with white representing the highest protein concentration and purple the lowest.