January 2014—AION Laboratories, a division of PAML, has been established to provide a full spectrum of laboratory testing to age-management physicians and clinics across the country. AION's aging-related tests use a single requisition to obtain a thorough laboratory assessment of each patient.

AION, based in Spokane, Wash., uses immunoassays, tandem mass spectrometry, and DNA analysis to detect risk factors and biomarkers associated with aging. Test panels include baseline assessments and thyroid, lipid, expanded lipid, chemistry, cardiovascular risk, comprehensive cardiovascular, hormone, expanded hormone, menopause, inflammatory, diabetes/metabolic, and genetic testing.
