

CAP TODAY webinar on BRCA mutation testing

March 26, 2018—CAP TODAY is hosting a webinar titled “Developing Perspectives on BRCA Testing: New Horizons for Breast Cancer” on Thursday, March 29, 1:30 PM ET.

Tabetha Sundin, PhD, HCLD(ABB), MB(ASCP)CM, and Leigha Senter-Jamieson, MS, LGC, will discuss the rationale for BRCA mutation testing in breast cancer, the key highlights of the BRCA testing and interpretation process, and reconsidering multidisciplinary team roles and responsibilities to streamline the testing experience.

This hourlong webinar will be moderated by CAP TODAY publisher Bob McGonnagle. Dr. Sundin, scientific director, molecular diagnostics and serology, Sentara Healthcare, and Senter-Jamieson, associate professor, internal medicine, Ohio State University Comprehensive Cancer Center—James Cancer Hospital and Solove Research Institute, will answer questions from webinar attendees.
