

CellaVision expands product portfolio, 6/14

June 2014—CellaVision launched two new products, the CellaVision DM9600 (a replacement for CellaVision DM96), and CellaVision Advanced RBC Application, a software application for advanced analysis of red blood cells, both for use in clinical laboratories that handle large testing volumes and require a large capacity. On July 1 the CellaVision DM9600 becomes commercially available in both Europe and the United States, with the CellaVision Advanced RBC Application initially available in Europe only.
