

Cloud-based connectivity platform, 10/16

At the AACC show 2016

October 2016—Fio Corp. exhibited the Fionet platform, a cloud-based connectivity and reporting platform that enables real-time oversight, fragile network connectivity, and actionable insights for medical device manufacturers and health care providers.

“Connectivity is now an essential prerequisite for diagnostic platforms. Medical device manufacturers need to be ready to offer health care providers and funders immediate access to data captured during care delivery, wherever that is taking place,” Tom Bleiziffer, Fio director of business development for OEM partnerships, said in a statement.
