

Genomics and DNAnexus collaborate, 7/16

July 2016—Genomics plc, a company that develops algorithms and software solutions to uncover the relationships between genetic variation and human disease, has entered into a research collaboration with DNAnexus, a cloud-based genome informatics and data management platform. The companies will work together to improve researchers' abilities to analyze population-scale sequencing data. Genomics plc and DNAnexus are working with the Regeneron Genetics Center, and Genomics plc is a platform partner of Genomics England.
