

New medical thriller by Dr. Barbarajeon Magnani

Barbarajeon (BJ) Magnani, PhD, MD, chief of clinical pathology and director of toxicology at Tufts Medical Center, has released her second book, a medical thriller featuring protagonist Dr. Lily Robinson. In The Queen of All Poisons (Encircle Publications), Dr. Robinson, a brilliant pathologist, is hired by the government to assassinate a terrorist who is planning a mass poisoning in New York City.

Dr. Magnani is also professor of anatomic and clinical pathology, Tufts University School of Medicine, and current chair of the CAP Toxicology Committee.

A portion of the proceeds from this book will support See, Test & Treat, a free cancer screening and health education program from the CAP Foundation.
