

Owen Mumford introduces Unistik venous blood collection devices

September 2023—Owen Mumford has introduced its Unistik venous blood collection devices. Unistik VacuFlip features a safety guard that flips over to cover the needle after it is withdrawn from the patient's arm. An audible click signals the safety guard is in place and the needle is locked. VacuFlip is available in three needle gauges and needle lengths.

Unistik ShieldLock is designed to provide protection once the needle is removed from the patient's vein using a thumb-activated safety mechanism. An audible click signals the safety guard is in place and the needle is retracted and locked. ShieldLock is available in five needle gauges, one needle length, and two tube lengths.
