September 2020—Power of Process, an international learning and development company, and LabVine have partnered to provide an online laboratory performance improvement program, hosted on Labvinelearning.com. The program consists of the Power of Process Champion and Power of Process Master courses followed by a three-month workplace component to embed learning.

The Champion course provides an in-depth understanding of laboratory processes, how processes relate to laboratory performance, and the ability to identify performance problems and propose corrective actions. The Master course will enable registrants to analyze laboratory performance data, identify performance problems, and propose corrective actions using seven quality tools and methodologies. Both courses are given over a 15-day period.
