

Remote mobile microscope, 2/18

February 2018—Spot Imaging introduced its CytoXpress, an FDA-approved consultation method that lets clinicians and technologists transmit a live, interactive image stream directly to the user's computer, eliminating the travel and wait time associated with on-site consults. It provides video teleconferencing, single-click conference connection, voice over Internet Protocol (VoIP), interactive cursor, annotation tools, and one-click image archiving.
