

TriCore goes live with X-Lab's Labgnostic

May 22, 2023—X-Lab announced that TriCore Reference Laboratories will go live with its product Labgnostic to transition TriCore's paper-based orders and results workflows to fully electronic workflows. Labgnostic enables TriCore to have access to a network of laboratories via a single interface to exchange samples with any other laboratory on the network.

"Labgnostic allowed us to interface with one of our referral labs, Arkana. As with any interface, orders are entered electronically and results are received electronically directly into our LIS, negating the need for scanning or manual re-entry," Eric Carbonneau, TriCore's chief operating officer, said in a press release. "Labgnostic can manage multiple electronic interfaces, which is a key feature we will be leveraging. We'll leverage the single interface to the Labgnostic network to connect to more of our vendors. This saves us the hidden overhead costs of supporting and licensing multiple interfaces."

Labgnostic connects almost 200 diagnostic organizations through exchange hubs in the United States and Europe.
